Wilmington man survives a real 'cliffhanger'

A Wilmington man escaped serious injury Tuesday when a scaffolding rig snapped, leaving him and a partner dangling 22 stories and some 200 feet near the roof of One Ashburton Place, Boston.

Benjamin Weymouth, 30 of Wilmington and fellow worker Mark Indelicato, 54 of Lowell suffered minor bruises when the rig they were working on snapped. Their safety belts and lifelines saved the pair as they managed to scramble to the roof of the building as help arrived.

Weymouth and Indelicato were part of a 12 man crew working for Premiere Waterproofing Company of West Hartford, Conn. The crew was replacing caulking at the Ashburton Place building that is located near the State House.

Weymouth and Indelicato were treated for bruises and released from Massachusetts' General Hospital later in the day. The work site was shutdown by officials of the Occupational Safety and Health Administration and pieces of the broken rig cable were taken to the State Police Lab for analysis.

Town balks at MWRA suit

by Jeff Nazzaro

The town of Wilmington balked Thursday in a meeting at Waltham City Hall of over-assessed communities at joining a possible class action suit against the Massachusetts Water Resource Authority (MWRA).

The inaction comes after the Wilmington water and sewer commission approved $2,500 on June 24 to be allocated at the discretion of Town Manager Michael Cairra for the town to take part in a preliminary fact-finding phase regarding a possible suit.

Selectman Diane Allan said that while the town has not "made a commitment [to the class action suit]...we have not given up yet."

The possibility of Wilmington's joining in the MWRA suit now hinges on two factors, according to Allan. The town is still looking for a commitment from a majority of the 31 towns deemed to be over-assessed by the MWRA.

Allan also indicated that there were issues involving the suit which were "not quite clear." According to Allan, the town didn't anticipate the extent to which Attorney Stephen Delinsky, whom the committee of over-assessed communities has retained for a preliminary investigation, would pursue information relative to the case. "It was [the town's] understanding that some of these things would be done at a later date," Allan said in reference to Delinsky's methods, adding "the fee range [for the suit] is higher than we anticipated."

Delinsky, who was not present at the July 1 meeting in Waltham, included in his initial observations "a gray area as to additional expenses that could be incurred," Allan said.

Assistant Town Manager Jeffrey Hull, who attended the Waltham meeting along with Allan and Town Counsel Alan Altman, believes costs attached to the first phase of a possible suit could well exceed the initial understood amount of $40,000, $1,500 of which would come from Wilmington.

Hull asserts that Delinsky now estimates fees for the initial phase at $125,000, additional expenses notwithstanding. If the MWRA contests Delinsky's requests for information and if additional legal expertise is required to decipher facts, Hull believes first phase costs could exceed $200,000.

The town of Wilmington "is not in a position to spend a lot of money," Hull said. To date, the town has not used any of the $2,500 authorized by the water and sewer commission.

The Wilmington contingent, including Allan, are still looking for majority support from the other communities before taking part in a class action suit. "That is really the thrust behind what people are waiting in the wings for," Allan said.

Show stealer

Seven-year old Jordan Weiner stole the show at the Wilmington Rotart last week with his rendition of the Star Spangled Banner.

The seven year old stole the show

Marv Weiner, of Boutwell Street, Wilmington has become the 49th president of the Rotary club of Wilmington. He was inaugurated into office on June 30, thus becoming, it can be said, a successor to the office first held by Fred F. Cain in 1944.

Ralph Swanson, a past district governor and past president of the Wilmington Club, did the honors. Because it was a warm summer day most of the members wore short sleeved shirts, and no coats. But not Ralph.

Ralph was in a finely tailored blue coat, appropriate to the occasion. The remarks made by Ralph were entirely appropriate.

But the star performer was a young man of seven years named Jordan Weiner. Jordan, the youngest person to ever play the piano at Rotary, played while the club sang the Star Spangled Banner.

Job training program in Wilmington July 12

Those who have found themselves locked out of the job market because they lack key job skills, are not alone. Unemployed workers who need to retrain will want to attend the seminar on "Training Opportunities" in room 9 of Wilmington Town Hall at 9 a.m. Monday, July 12. The seminar, sponsored by the Town of Wilmington through the Small Cities Employment Assistance Program, is open to all Wilmington residents.

Funds for retraining are available to unemployed Wilmington residents who meet income eligibility guidelines through the Small Cities Employment Assistance Program. Application requirements to obtain training grants will be explained in detail during the beginning of the seminar. Afterward, guest speaker Richard Fleming, vocational rehabilitation counselor, will discuss other training and career assessment programs available through the Mass. Rehabilitation Commission.

The Town of Wilmington received a fiscal year 1992 grant from the Massachusetts Small Cities Program to provide employment assistance to Wilmington residents, as well as a variety of housing related activities. The employment assistance includes training grant a job bank, career assessment group counseling, employee seminars, and referrals to other employment programs that benefit Wilmington residents their job search. For more information about the program contact Cathy Beyer at 658-6333.

Stepping Stones hop for disabled

Youngsters at Stepping Stones Nursery, Wilmington hopped to help people with disabilities, raising $60 in an Easter Seal Hop-n-ing.

The children had spent the previous week learning about disabilities - what causes them, how disabilities effect people's everyday lives, the equipment used to cope. After that, they were ready to help.

Each child secured pledges from family and friends for every hop performed during a three minute hop-n-ing. The funds raised help provide Easter Seal services for men, women and children with disabilities.

Easter Seal services, including summer camp, therapeutic swim programs, home health care, physical and occupational therapy, speech therapy, equipment loan, technology for independence, support groups for people recovering from strokes and information and referral services.

Beach passes

The Recreation Department, in its address to the board of selectmen, announced that there is financial help available to families who cannot afford passes to the Silver Lake beach.

Interested parties should contact Ron Swasey, Recreation Director, at the Recreation Office, Room Eight of the Town Hall.

Mosquito spraying

by Jeff Nazzaro

Central Mass. Mosquito Control has changed their policy for spraying this season. In the past, residents who did not want their respective yards sprayed were required to call Central Mosquito with such a request. Now, those wanting their property sprayed should call to have the service implemented.

Under this provision, Central Mosquito Control will spray the streets of Wilmington, but will not enter any resident's property to spray unless so directed.

Wilmington residents wishing to have their yards sprayed should contact David Scott of Central Mass. Mosquito Control at (508) 393-3055 with their requests. The scheduled dates for the spraying of mosquitos are July 6, 13, 20, and 27.

Wilmington receives $123,063.27 in back taxes

The Town of Wilmington has received a check for $123,063.27 in back taxes from the U.S. Small Business Administration, (SBA) U.S. Rep. Peter Torkildsen announced.

The taxes were owed on land that was taken over a year ago by SBA. The previous owner had not paid taxes, so SBA should have assumed the liability. The agency and the town had been involved in a year long dispute regarding the payment when Torkildsen's district staff joined the town's effort to secure the money earlier this year.

"Cities and towns are under enough financial strain today," Torkildsen said. "This was a case of getting a federal agency to do what was legal and right."

While a small action for the SBA, the payment will definitely help the town of Wilmington," Torkildsen said in conclusion.

REFINANCE NOW

Lending rates are the lowest they've been in years - so low that some may bounce back a bit in coming months. If you've been paying off old, high-interest loans, now's a good time to refinance.

Fixed-rate mortgages have dipped lower than any time in the past 20 years, averaging about 7.6 percent. Trading in a loan that's three or more years old could save hundreds of dollars a month. Other borrowers are opting for a new, 15-year mortgage; monthly payments are roughly the same, but lending rates - and total cost - are much lower.

A deciding factor in refinancing, and in choosing the type of loan, is how long you intend to remain in your home. It's necessary to balance the points and closing costs of a new loan against the savings per month; if you intend to stay long enough to recoup costs, it pays. Any costs not deducted, however, can be added to your cost basis. Even car loans are being refinanced these days. This isn't worth the effort unless you have at least two years remaining on a four year loan of $16,000 or more.

Even when loan costs are tax deductible, it's worthwhile to save. You'll get good financial advice from the professionals at Joyce K. Brisbois, C.P.A.

Tony Gentile (center) of Telestar Fireworks of New Hampshire sets up the fireworks display under the able supervision of Wilmington Firefighter Ed Corcoran.

frankly speaking

by Kevin John Sowyrda

Welcome to July, second only to August as the most lazy, hazy of months when the greatest worries are limited to your suntan, beach traffic and keeping the mayonnaise from spoiling. These stirring July anxieties will soon give way to the more serious August issues, like dodging the Green Heads at Crane's Beach and beginning back-to-school shopping.

New Englanders are naturally subdued by summer. It steals our thoughts from political reality like riptide dragging you to the deep waters. Columnists generally hate this time of year, but after a merciless winter, Greater Bostonians are more than entitled to a relaxing period of tuning out. Those championship softball players are a lot more important than Clinton's economic package, Hillary's health care reform and the dreary pile of local and state issues that we can always grapple with again after Labor Day.

But, the two exceptions to this summer oblivion are shopping and water rates. Shopping has no holiday, except in Burlington, where Chief of Police William Soda decided that the Puritans were right after all. The most famous of the Blue Laws' faithful, Soda is the reason 'The Mall' was closed on Monday because the state legislature, still unwilling to trash the anachronistic Moral Shopping Code, gives local chiefs of police the right to decide whether merchants can sell or not on the declared state holidays.

No word yet on Soda's Puritan credentials, but the chief is an outstanding example of everything that is wrong with the Massachusetts' business climate which provides merchants all the comfort of a January blizzard.

The Merrimack Valley is a classic example of working class families who should have the free market right to conduct commerce on their own terms, and not according to another person's values, even the Burlington Chief of Police.

"We wish the legislature would decide once and for all whether we could open or close," said Burlington Mall General Manager Randy Lapiere, who recognized that most police chiefs "don't want to make this decision" and that her merchants probably lost a good bundle on Monday to malls like the Galeria and Pheasant Lane which were open on the holiday.

The chief's motives are hard to figure, and I couldn't reach him at police headquarters in Burlington to ask him just what gives.

Water rates

Just as Wilmington is poised to join 30 other communities in a possible suit against the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority (MWRA), the town's MWRA watchdog remains skeptical about the lawsuit's anticipated price tag of over one million dollars.

Wilmington Assistant Town Manager Jeffrey Hull told the Town Crier on Tuesday that preliminary research for the court action alone could cost some $175,000, and that is based on the presumption that the water authority, based in Charlestown, would cooperate with the municipalities' legal counsel. "I'm not sure whether it is to our benefit, and I have some doubt," said Hull, who still believes there is a legitimate issue of fairness in rate setting which the authority should address.

The municipal revolution is being triggered by the authority's rate calculation method. The MWRA calculates local assessments based on the total population of the town. Accordingly, the 650 residents and 100 or so industries using MWRA sewerage in Wilmington are paying through the nose because the brilliant rate setters in Charlestown calculate our bills as if the entire community were benefiting from MWRA sewer hookup.

Wilmington's total MWRA bill this year was $1.2 million. The permanent solution to water rate stress may be found in the world of Baystate politics. Thanks to a legislative maneuver which has left his inner circle wincing, Governor William Weld is on the verge of inheriting control of the water authority, including the politically hazardous responsibility of setting rates. "Governor Weld is coming into an election year and it would seem likely that he might come up with some additional money to assist in paying for this," said Hull.

Given the cost guess for a lawsuit against the water giant in Boston, the town should walk carefully before it enters a battle which has a price tag we can't afford and a timetable which Hull said could take up to five years.

Briefly in politics

In what may develop as the classic political swap, the Boston Globe reported Sunday that Wilmington's State Senator Bob Buell (R) is close to a retirement decision and that Lowell's former State Senator, John Sullivan, a Republican, left office last year to continue her recuperation from breast cancer. Colleagues who've kept in touch say the former Republican activist is chomping at the bit to make a comeback and has recently moved to Wenham, a solid Republican town in Buell's First Essex Middlesex District.

Buell confidants say the senator, a fixture on Beacon Hill for years and the senior legislator from the Cape Ann area, has become discouraged with his role in the upper chamber since recently losing his bid to be minority leader to East Longmeadow Senator Brian Lees. "He feels it's the right time to go," said a Buell ally at the state house.

However, the senator's departure may leave the door shut to local politicians. The district has been considered a 'safe Republican seat' since it was held by Bill Saltonstall, who with his successor Buell drew strength from the staunchly G.O.P. towns of Hamilton, Wenham, Topsfield and Boxford. Also, there is a demographic dissimilarity between Wilmington and the majority of the district which is comprised of the Cape Ann communities.

Some G.O.P. House members in that end of the district may compete with Sullivan for the nomination should Buell step down. They are Representative Bruce Tarr, Gloucester, Tim Clark, Hamilton and Tom Palumbo of Newbury.

Glory!

The July 11, 1968 edition of the Town Crier of Wilmington noted that:

Selectman Charles Black, for nearly 40 years a public servant in the town was the guest of honor at the town hall on Monday evening. Former Town Counsel Philip Buzzell was the spokesman and presented the Town of Wilmington a painting of Mr. Black. Over 50 guests were present to pay homage.

The planning board determined that the Jackson Brothers would have to put up a bond for $115,000 for their new housing development, Allen Park, off Parker Street, in the old so-called plains of Wilmington.

A letter from John Elia declared that "anyone in favor of the Hatch Act which preserves our mosquito sanctuaries, ought go to out in his yard after dark. If he isn't quickly cannibalized by mosquitoes, let him drop by my neck of the swamp...or should I give it the high class name...wetlands?"

John Winters of Pershing Street was elected commander of American Legion Post Post 136, Wilmington.

Elia's Market offered ground chuck, leaner than ever at $3.59 for a five pound bucket; fresh caught mackerel, dressed your way, 19 cents a pound and Ipswich steamer clams, three pounds for $1.00.

Lucci's Market advertised spare ribs at 59 cents a pound, Colonial sliced bacon, 79 cents a pound and corn, six ears for 39 cents.

Tewksbury

The July 13, 1983 edition of the Town Crier of Tewksbury noted that:

Tewksbury's under-10 traveling soccer team won the state championship.

On top of the prospect of discontinued rubbish collection, residents will also face a year in which fire stations will periodically close and police patrols will be periodically shorthanded. There could also be fewer teachers in the classrooms etc. Departments were having to cut their budgets.

Francis Santoro of Main Street was named to the Xi Sigma Pi

National Forestry Honor Society while a student at UMass, Amherst, Rosemary Goodwin of Glenwood Road, was accepted to Bunker Hill Community College.

Right-hander Dave Sarsfield fired a three hitter, striking out six and walking two as the Tewksbury American District 14 Little League All-Stars advanced to quarter final action with a 5-1 victory over South Lawrence.

Wilson Brazile resigned his positions with the Shawsheen Tech School Committee and the Tewksbury Library Board. He planned to move to Cape Cod.

A new, inexpensive and convenient procedure available to diabetics to test their own blood sugar levels was being taught at the Choate-Symmes Health Services.

Maureen Matarese was assigned to full time duty with the police department, becoming Wilmington's first full time female police officer.

Jamie Demos of Hopkins Street, graduated from the Barbizon School of Modeling in Boston.

Friends and Neighbors blood drive July 15

Civic groups, schools, businesses, and municipal agencies from Tewksbury, Wilmington and Dracut have invited eligible members of the public to a Friends and Neighbors blood drive, part of an unprecedented summer campaign launched by the American Red Cross Blood Services of the Northeast Region. The Friends and Neighbors blood drive will be held Thursday, July 15 from 2 to 8 p.m. at the Elks Hall, South Street, Tewksbury.

The blood drive's supporters encourage their friends and neighbors to join this grass roots, multi-community effort to donate 200 units of blood for area patients.

Supporters include the K of C, students from Tewksbury and Wilmington High Schools, Tewksbury and Wilmington municipal officers, churches in Wilmington and Tewksbury, the Holiday Inn in Tewksbury, both McDonald's in Tewksbury, organizations from Dracut and WLLH-AM in Lowell.

WLLH will enhance the festivities by sending an on-air personality to the blood drive to conduct interviews. In addition, everyone who attends the drive will receive a McDonald's coupon good for free fries and soda.

The Tewksbury event is one of 16 Friends and Neighbors blood drives to be held throughout Massachusetts and Maine during the summer.

Friends and Neighbors blood drives aim to boost summer blood donations, which traditionally decline for the two reasons: college and high school drives are rarely scheduled during the summer and corporate and community drives draw fewer donors during this vacation season.

However, there is no vacation from the need for blood to help cancer, trauma, surgical, and other patients. In Massachusetts and Maine alone, an average of 1,100 units of blood must be donated each day to meet patients' needs.

Residents wishing to help replenish the community blood supply may be eligible to donate if they are in good health, are at least 18 years old (17 with a signed American Red Cross parental/guardian consent form), weight at least 105 pounds, and have no history of exposure to hepatitis or the AIDS virus. There is no upper age limit for donors and most medications are acceptable.

For more information or to schedule a donation appointment at the Friends and Neighbors blood drive in Tewksbury, please call the American Red Cross at 1-800-258-0025. Volunteers are needed to help at the drive. Those interested should call the same phone number.

It was on a misty moonlit night, many years ago by a quiet pond, unknown to most townsfolk, an unusual event transpired. While the full summer moon looked down at itself in the mirror surface and listened to the steeple clock in the distance chime 12, unexpectedly, the shiny reflection was shattered by a shadowy form rising out of the water. A lady, whose auburn tresses cascaded about shoulders, was wearing a flowing gown which shimmered in the moonlight and in her hand - a lighted candle. As she walked across the field, flowers appeared by her feet, and the landscape was transmuted to peaceful beauty.

To this day...one can see the lady from the Stillwater...on a Stillwaer Co. creation 100 percent cotton t-shirt, water blue on oatmeal beige, $10.00 at Vintage Etc., Cambridge and Stillwater Gardens, Wilmington.

ARE YOU PROTECTED?
by Edward H. Wilkens

WHY AN INDEPENDENT AGENT?
QUESTION: Why should I buy insurance from an Independent Insurance agent?
ANSWER: Most importantly, he represents several companies -- not just one -- and can tailor your insurance by placing it with the company which best suits your needs. He is a businessman who lives in your community and knows local conditions. He's there when you need advice and counsel and, when you have a claim to file, he's the one who will handle your claim for you. It certainly makes things easier when you only have one person to contact -- one person to help you select the right type of insurance and one person to simplify your claim procedure.

YOUR INDEPENDENT agent represents several companies and can select the right one for YOU!

Hills Fences, 2230 Main St., Tewksbury • 658-5358

Good neighbors make good fences. Your neighbor makes these.
Visit Hills Fences today!

Good fences make good neighbors... but who makes good fences? Hills Fences does! For fourteen years residents of Tewksbury and Wilmington have been leaning on their neighbor's fences. Hill's fences.

The showroom is on Main St (Rt 38) opposite Haffner's Gas Station in South Tewksbury. They have dozens of fence styles on display as well as an example of their custom built sheds. But that is only the start. Customers can choose the exact fence they want and draw upon Hill's years of experience to guide them in the best kind of fencing to use. Custom built fences are easy to get. Hills have their own shop to join all the elements to make a beautiful fence and at a very reasonable price.

Choosing a local company over a "national brand store" might seem risky, but ask the "big guy" for an 8 year guarantee. You can't even buy one! Hill's guarantees their above ground products for 8 years, because they use the best available #1 Grade White Cedar for the above ground stock. Their posts are made of first quality pressure-treated Southern Yellow Pine. They use wooden dowels and aluminum screw nails to hold everything together. Combine that top quality with professional, full time craftsmen, supervised by the owner of the company and you'll have a fence with a very long, and healthy life!

If you'd prefer to install the fence yourself they will help you choose the right materials and recommend the best way to install it. Customers save money and the job still meets Hill's high quality standards.

Another fine product they carry is a complete of vinyl, aluminum and chain link fencing.

If you are considering a new fence or small building, call for a free estimate and ask for design ideas. There is no charge for this initial service and you'll find the offer the best value in the area!

Tewksbury Camera & Video, 1215 Main St, Tewksbury (508) 851-9638

Doing what you love and loving what you do is important in a small business. Brenda Freitas does. She's been in photography since 1965, and she opened her photo shop in 1981. Her business has expanded, as all businesses did in the 80's, and she's still here!

You know that you can buy film at Tewksbury Camera and Video. And of course cameras. But it's the little things that surprise you. How about a flash bulb for that old Brownie? Yes, it's in there! And the film? You guessed it! Is that old 8 mm or Super 8 movie camera collecting dust in your closet? Get it out and have some fun with it. If you have an old camera and would like to try using it, Brenda has the supplies needed. If it's broken... it can be fixed.

Repairs have become a major part of the business... cameras, camcorders, VCR's, and even computers. Any brand can be repaired, whether or not it is sold by Tewksbury Camera & Video. Brenda now sells Apple and Apple Macintosh computers and accessories.

Video rentals are still hot. You can rent the latest releases here, too. Here's the twist: Training Tapes. Do you know how to run Lotus 123? Pagemaker? you can learn by watching a video! You can rent it at Tewksbury Camera & Video!

As you would expect, Brenda sells cameras and video equipment. Kodak, Fuji, Pentax, Ricoh, Polaroid and all the accessories including film, tape and all the extra toys. The best thing in the store is the expert advice. Buying camera equipment from a large chain may save you a dollar if you know exactly what you need, but don't count on a department store clerk to know the difference between ISO and Lumens. ALL AROUND TRAVEL Update

by Peggy Lee
President

ALL ABOARD FOR ALASKA'S GLACIER COUNTRY

If you're looking for adventure, if you are looking for an extraordinary experience off the beaten path, and if you're looking to go American - look to Alaska. A good place to start for the first-time traveler is Alaska's glacier country, located in the mountain ranges of the southern and southeastern parts of the state. Some glaciers are easily accessible by ground transportation from urban centers such as Juneau. The most spectacular group is clustered around Glacier Bay, serviced by excursion vessels. Wherever you find them, active glaciers are a sight like no other, with sheets of ice as tall as 10 stories high slicing off and crashing into the glittering water below with a thunderous roar.

Unwind for awhile in the beauty and splendor of Alaska. Stop here first, however, at ALL AROUND TRAVEL, for prompt, personal attention to the details that will make your trip a memorable one. Whether you're staying close to home or traveling to far away places, we'll help you get there. Unsure of where "there" is? Browse our video library for some good ideas. We are located at 203 Jefferson Rd., No. Wilmington (Rt. 62), where experience makes all the difference in the world. PH: 658-2313. Hrs: Mon-Fri 9-5 and after hours by appointment.

HINT: Glacial ice has an almost eerie blue tint, caused by the immense pressure that formed it.

Wilmington police news

During the week ending July 6, Wilmington police officers responded to 40 alarms, made 11 arrests and three protective custody detentions; logged two assault reports, assisted other departments on three occasions and checked out 19 reports of disorderly conduct.

Seven domestic problems were quieted, three larcenies were investigated, a motor vehicle was stolen and a stolen vehicle was recovered. Medical assistance was rendered on four occasions; there were three animal related complaints; three non-criminal complaints were taken and 12 public services performed.

A restraining order was issued, two threat complaints were taken, eight traffic accidents were checked out, along with three trailbike complaints and nine incidents of suspicious activity.

Six cases of vandalism are still under investigation.

Arrests

Late Tuesday night Officer Bob Richter arrested Paul A. Reichel, of Glen Road after the officer quieted a disturbance. Reichel was charged with assault and battery and held for Woburn District Court Wednesday morning.

Wednesday night Officers Steve Mauriello and Bob Richter arrested a man on Main Street after they stopped him for drunk driving. They later found the car to have been stolen in Medford three weeks ago. The man, who gave a false name at booking, was charged with operating under the influence of liquor, larceny of a motor vehicle and giving a false name. After refusing to provide his name, he was arraigned in court as a John Doe pending identification. The suspect was later identified through fingerprints as Robert White, with several addresses. White also had used at least six different aliases when arrested by different police departments.

At 4:30 a.m. Saturday Officers David Sugrue and Joe Desmond arrested Vicki M. Dumont, 43 of Norfolk. She was charged with operating under the influence of liquor then bailed for her appearance in Woburn Court Tuesday, July 6.

Monday evening Officer Bob Richter drove to Lowell to arrest William S. Campbell of that city on the basis of a default warrant. He was held overnight to appear in Woburn Court.

About nine o'clock Monday night, six youths were arrested after a foot pursuit through the square area. Officers were alerted by a citizen that a van had been involved in a hit and run accident in Billerica. The van was also found to have been stolen in Lowell a short time earlier. The driver, Julian Lane of Cambridge, age 17, was charged with using a motor vehicle without authority and receiving a stolen motor vehicle. Joseph Francis, also of Cambridge, also 17 and four juveniles ranging in age from 14 through 16 were charged with receiving stolen property, to wit a stolen motor vehicle.

Arresting officers included Sgts. McCue and Rooney, and Officers Axelrod, Hubby and Richter.

Saying thanks

Wilmington Police Chief Bobby Stewart, Gunny Davis of Wilmington Builders' Supply and Roger Lessard of the Wilmington Public Buildings Dept. were on hand to honor Wilmington Builders' Supply after their donation of materials for the new 911 room at the Wilmington Police Dept.

The Brewers' defense was again anchored by shortstop Tim Hogg and first baseman Mike Ellsworth.

The Rangers' offense was led by Jason Manent and Eric Meixler, both of whom accounted for six hits and eight of the Ranger runs.

Defensively, Pat Graham and Dave Foley made key plays to shutdown the Brewer rallies.

Padres 12 Brewers 11

The Padres edged past the Brewers by a 12-11 score in a seesaw battle which matched up two of the Farm League powerhouses.

The Padres jumped out to a 9-0 lead on the strength of extra base hits by Matt Trimarchi, Mike Harrison and Justin (Boomer) were quiet.

Brady and the defense of Tom Irwin and James O'Neil.

The Brewers' offense got untracked in the middle innings as they rallied to take an 11-9 lead.

Johnny Lee, Brent Holloway and Ryan Gaudet got the offense rolling and Mike (The Hammer) Senerian blasted a three-run triple.

The Padres came back with two runs in the fifth inning to tie the score at 11 while shutting down the Brewers' offense with slick defense. Padres' catcher Mark Stewart ended two Brewer rallies by snagging four popups.

The Padres won the game in the top of the sixth as Jack Webb doubled to push across Jared Rogers with the lead run.

Danielle Cleary started a Brewers' comeback in the bottom of the sixth, but the defense of Webb and Brady closed out the game to hand the Brewers their second defeat.

Minor League Angels 3 Cubs 2

The Angels' had terrific hits by Derek Courtois and Danny Vassallo. Corey McCann's fielding helped the Angels along.

For the Cubs, Corey Calway and Mike Hiltz brought the runs in with good fielding from Pat Maloney.

Cubs vs. Mets

Outstanding pitching by Cubs Josh Hiltz and Josh Howlett along with a grand slam by Mike Fournier proved to be too much for the Mets to overcome. Cubs defense was strong as well, with Chuck Osgood turning a key double play.

Mets pitcher Rob Garrett had three strong innings. Good defense by Dean Carrozza, Dan Fonzi and Mike Comer, but the Mets bats were quiet.

Charlie's bats explode, 13-11

by James Pote

Charlie's overcomes Lions' attack, 13-11

Charlie's continued their solid play when they met up with the struggling Lions' Club in Wilmington Adult Softball League action.

With Charlie's leading 1-0 after the first two innings, they exploded with six runs, including a three-run triple by Ronnie Barber and RBI doubles from John Chjampa and Peter Brown.

The Lions came back with one run of their own in the third and four in the fourth which was capped by Ed Riley and Bill Cleary who both drove in two teammates.

In the fifth inning Ernie Poole demolished a pitch that landed over the leftfield fence to help give the Lions the 8-7 edge.

Dick Hersom drove a triple in the gap to drive in a run, while Eddie Poste and Chiampa also drove in teammates to take the lead back from the Lions at 10-8.

The Lions came back again, however, with three more runs with Poole and Bob Ducey driving them in to retake this seesaw of a game at 11-10.

The last inning brought heroics as Kevin French started off the inning with a double. He scored on Ted Wicks' sacrifice fly and then Joe Razo singled in two runs to finish off the Lions by the score of 13-11.

McTire 10 Rocco's 8

The Tires' bats were very loud in this game as they scored five early runs in the first inning thanks to Pat Taylor's three-run blast—that hasn't landed yet.

Rocco's came back with two runs in the bottom half of the first and one in the second to cut the lead to 5-3.

Mike Duggan, Bill Naimo and Joe Franchesi each drove in runs to help Rocco's take the lead at 6-5.

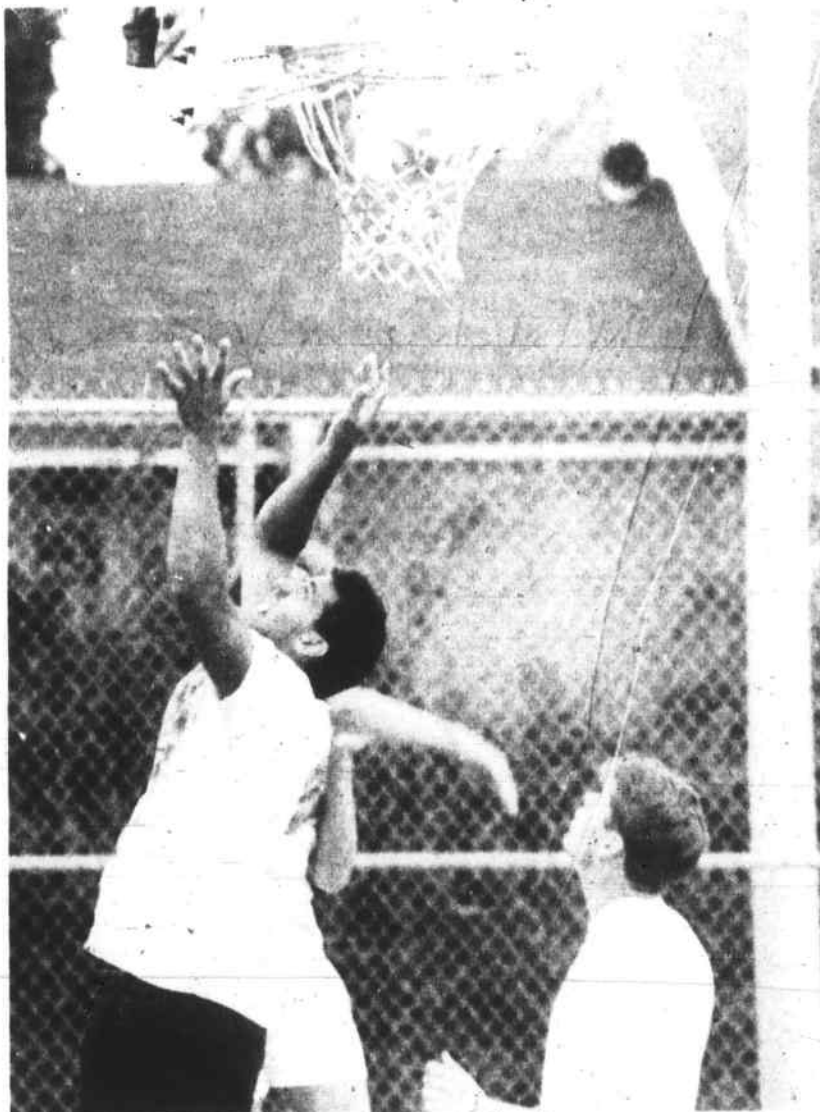

But, in the fourth, McTire scored three more as Bob Dolan singled in two runs to extend the lead to 8-6 for McTire.

That lead stood until the bottom of the seventh where Rocco's scored two, including Naimo's sacrifice fly to tie it up at eight apiece.

McTire's Paul Fullerton led off the eighth with a triple and both he and Bill Cawthron the on deck batter scored to win yet another for McTire.

Bobby Noel drove in McCully to make it 8-3 in the fourth frame and that was it as Three Sons and their new uniforms won another one.

McTire 17 Shea's Concrete 2

It was all McTire and Pat Taylor in this one as Taylor hit another blast as he was 3-3 with four RBIs. Paul Cawthron and Bobby Hoag each drove in three teammates to help this slugfest of a game.

Boat: a hole in the water that you try to fill with money

by Bill Conlon
Fishing from shore is weak. There are times when the shore is the best place to be, such as horn pout fishing on a balmy summer night (ahh!) or when the big boys are prowling the shallows. But for the most part, you need to leave the dirt behind to fish the best spots.

The question is -- how?
The simplest, and surprisingly the least utilized way of going deeper in local ponds, is wading. By wading up to your chest your casting reach is greatly improved, and you can hit all but the deepest spots that way.

On the down side, wading means you need a set of chest waders if you expect to stay dry, and wading in a New England pond usually means a walk through pond muck, which is a foot thick or deeper in most spots.

Maybe next time, thanks.
Next up is a "Belly Boat," which is nothing more than an inner tube in a fancy vest. Put on a set of swim fins and waders and you become a boat!

Again, no thanks. Bobbing around with just your upper torso sticking out of the water is an invitation to a hospital bed, thanks to the way many boat drivers operate around here. Belly Boats might work in small, weed-free ponds, but how many of those do you know? Besides, casting with your elbows in the water is a bit weird, I'll pass, thanks.

Which brings us into the realm of the solid hull. Canoes, paddle boats, runabouts, barges, tankers, hydro-foil ferries -- take your pick.

The two biggest factors involved in a boat purchase are mobility and price, but there are lots of smaller factors to consider as well.

If you don't own a house right on the water, you'll need to haul your boat back and forth whenever you want to go fishing. That puts a big damper on how big a ship you can use. Car-top racks work fine if your boat or canoe is small and you're in shape (you'll need muscle to hoist it on and off) and if you don't care what the finish of the car will look like. You will gouge the paint while wrestling a boat on and off the roof of the car. Oh yes.

I own a boat small enough to fit in the bed of a pickup, (when there's a pickup available) which works for me. I can wrangle the boat in and out of the truck without help, giving me freedom of movement, and the small electric motor I've got will push me around the pond for hours on end.

But an electric only works with smaller boats. If you can't carry the boat on your back, you'll need a gas engine, with perhaps an electric for cruising along the edge of the weeds. And gas motors are expensive!

A trailer is required for all bigger boats, but you'll need a vehicle with adequate backbone to pull your toy around. Also, some boat ramps are unpaved, so you'd best have 4-wheel drive to avoid getting mired in the sand. Oh, and expect to replace the clutch at least once if you're hauling a boat around.

So, we've determined how big a boat you need. Now, can you afford it? Answer this one carefully!

Before you go boat-shopping, take your heart medication. The price of a new boat may put a big strain on your ticker. Even the plain, old tin jonboat I've been using for 20 years is outside my price range if I had to replace it, (which I really should). The only salvation is that a boat will last a lifetime, which is an argument to try on your minister of finance. "Oh, but honey ...!"

Cut and pass

Former Wilmington selectman Jim Stewart passes the ball and gets out of the way in the three-on-three basketball competition that was part of Wilmington's Fourth of July Celebration.

You can buy a used boat easily, but the most important factor isn't the body (hull) of the vessel itself -- it's the motor. You can pick up a 14-foot runabout for about $500, but plan to spend hundreds more on a new motor. Check out the hull and wiring, of course, but double check the motor, in the water, and doubt every word you're told about the condition of the powerplant. If the Goddess of Watersports smiles, you might, just maybe, find a used boat with a perfectly sound motor, but it isn't likely. Motors are a pain.

Motor repairs and renovations are expensive, because everything with the word "marine" attached costs at least double. A brass gear is a brass gear, but a marine brass gear costs much more. Go figure.

Your best bet, if you want a real workhorse fishing platform that will last forever, is to drop at least $10K. on a fiberglass bass boat with all the bells and whistles, such as electric and gasoline motors, live well, depth finder, radios, GPS -- the works. It's worth it, but be prepared to swear a blood oath to the missus that you'll never, ever ask for anything costing more than two dollars again in your whole life, so help you.

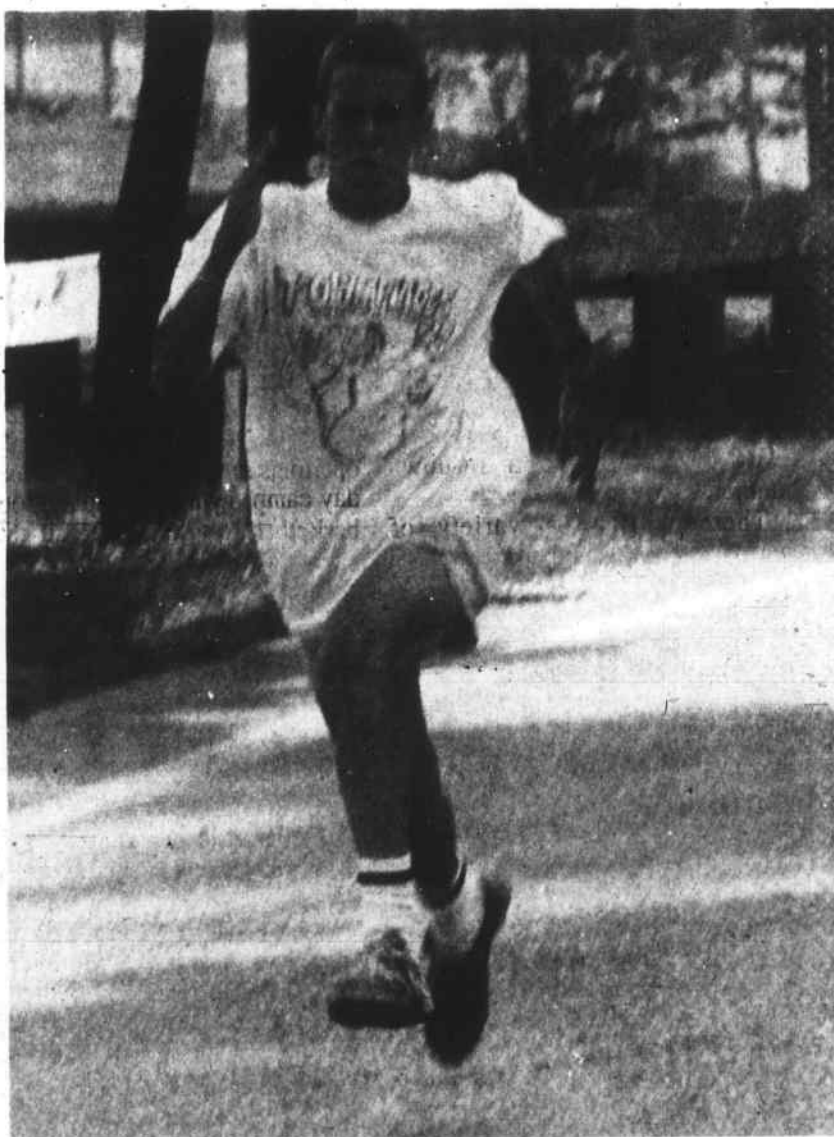

That about takes us through all the options for freshwater boats. Bigger boats, with inboard-outboard power or even full inboards, are simply too big for freshwater use, although you will see such monster "tuna boats" on local lakes. You don't need that much power for fresh water, really.

No matter what boat you desire, always remember an ancient saying: "A boat is a hole in the water that you try in vain to fill with money."

"boating accident waiting to happen" was pretty quiet on July Fourth, for a change. The local Lake Maspucipp Association last year bought a boat and donated it to the police, and they pay a town cop for one shift per weekend spent on the lake. The nice officer checks boat registrations and safety issues, suppresses drunken boaters and stupid water skiers, and generally keeps the peace. The lake is a safer, quieter place now. Would that idea work on your favorite lake this summer?

Tewksbury Spar-a-thon benefits M.D.A.

Kwon's Tae Kwon Do Academy of Tewksbury recently "Sparted for a Cure" at the Fourth Annual Tae Dwon Do demonstration and Spar-a-thon to benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

Each year, members of Kwon's Tae Kwon Do Academy donate their time and talent to raise funds to fight muscle disease.

During the demonstration, students broke wood, lifted cinderblocks and performed self-defense techniques using their healthy muscles to help those whose muscles are not as healthy.

This year's demonstration featured the U.S. Tae Kwon Do Team Champions and other Tae Kwon Do Masters.

Funds raised from the demonstration will enable MDA to continue its extensive research and patient service programs covering 40 neuromuscular diseases. The MDA sponsors 500 individual research projects here in New England.

MDA also supports some 240 hospital affiliated clinics nationwide, where people with any of the 40 disorders covered by MDA programs receive medical treatment and related services.

For information on attending classes, call on Tae Kwon Do, Master Kwon at 508-858-3699 or visit Kwon's Tae Kwon Do Academy at 885 Main Street in Tewksbury.

• Rec (from page 13)

Playground leaders are Ellen Grinder, Matt McManus, Dorothy McCarthy, Judy O'Connell, Jessica Harrison, and Carrie Tarantino will be ready and waiting for the playgrounders to arrive.

Cost is $30.00 for the entire summer. Register at the Recreation Office between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. daily.

Another MDA success

Tewksbury's Terry Hegarty, Debbie Carnes of MDA, Master Kwon and Wilmington's Andrea Martineau were on hand last week as MDA honored Kwon's Tae Kwon Do Academy for raising $640.00 for MDA.

New students prepare for future at Shawsheen Tech

Shawsheen Tech will welcome a class of 331 ninth graders in the fall, up 70 students, or more than 25 percent over last year's freshman class. The new students went to Shawsheen Tech last week for orientation, to meet other students and become acquainted with the school.

According to Assistant Superintendent John McDermott, "Job skills have changed. A college degree today does not guarantee employment, as many local adults are finding out the hard way." To find good employment, said McDermott, "you need training in a skill or specific occupation."

This is Shawsheen's drawing card, he added, the combination of academics and applied learning that forms the basis for vocational technical education, and is receiving more attention today as an effective learning method. Students alternate weeks of traditional training in fields such as drafting, automotive, culinary, and date processing, and more than a dozen others. They graduate with both a high school diploma and a certificate of vocational proficiency in the specialized field they studies. "A Shawsheen graduate can go to an employer and say, 'I know how to do this, how this machine works, and I can run it. You don't need to train me; I'm ready to work.'"

Exploratory
McDermott said Shawsheen's increasing enrollment may be the result of another element that area parents have noted. "Some kids go to college for four years, and still don't know what they want to do," he said. Through the ninth grade career exploratory, hands on learning, and other career exposure through the guidance department and organizations such as Vica, students discover what a variety of jobs are like while still in high school.

Accountability
Shawsheen Tech also offers accountability for their programs, McDermott noted. Any vocational technical program that places less than 70 percent of graduates two years in a row is put on probation for the third year. The program gets close scrutiny to determine how and if it can be improved to prepare students for in demand jobs. McDermott said over the last decade, the school has closed programs in photography, plant maintenance, electromechanical, and small engines. The placement assessment is required of vocational technical schools by the state. "Other educational programs may accept people with no evaluation of placement; that doesn't happen here," said McDermott.

Strong industry contacts
This example transcends all programs, where technology of the present and future is used to prepare students for jobs of four years from now. To help staff and administration chart that future, the school maintains strong industry contacts, including a volunteer program advisory committee for each vocational-technical offering.

Ninety-six percent placed Shawsheen Placement Coordinator Kenneth Faulkner noted placement is up this year at Shawsheen with more students employed in their fields than last year at graduation time.

Sixty-nine percent of the Class of 1993 is working; of that number 56 percent are employed in the field for which they were trained; 13 percent are in non-related jobs. "There is a general increase in jobs," said Faulkner, noting that construction has shown some improvement. The figure for students working in their field is up nine percent over last year, another good job market indicator, he said.

Tech adopts Surface Mount Technology

"Especially in a technical field, you must constantly learn something new to keep up with changes," said Shawsheen Tech instructor George Vetter. Vetter and fellow instructor Mel Frim attended a seven session evening program in surface mount technology, or SMT as it is known in the electronics field. Sponsored by Institute for Electrical and Electronics Engineers (IEEE) the course in Woburn showed engineers, managers, and teachers - anyone training electronic technicians the concept of placing more information in a smaller space on a printed circuit board by using the surface. Course attendees included two Shawsheen graduates who had been sent by their employers.

Shawsheen instructors introduced some aspects of SMT into the program this year; some of the impetus came from members of the Electronics Program Advisory, who pointed out this as a new direction for the curriculum. "One of the graduates did get a job in SMT based on what we've given her this far," noted Frim.

Next year, SMT will take a larger place in the hands-on laboratory as students learn what their teachers have been taught. Because it's new, SMT software teacher Paul Davis plans to create SMT instructional programs on the computer.

Students in the Shawsheen Electrical program are being trained for jobs as test technicians and in positions where repair and replacement skills are critical. Frim said many of today's jobs "are service oriented." Vetter said in addition to SMT other changes in the past few years have involved "an extended uses of computers." He uses a software program to duplicate a laboratory environment, for example.

TOWN OF WILMINGTONSMALL CITIES PROGRAM
NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

There will be a combined public hearing on Wednesday, July 21 at 7:30 pm in room 9 of Town Hall, 121 Glen Road, Wilmington, under the aegis of the Town Manager's Office, in conjunction with the Citizen's Advisory Committee for the Small Cities grant. There are two required purposes for this hearing:

1) To receive comments in regard to the priorities in the Community Action statement (CAS); the CAS is a planning process required before preparation and submission of a Small Cities grant or several other state grant programs. In the CAS process, various local government departments conduct a self evaluation in terms of unmet or underserved community needs; out of this emerges a set of priority needs for the town in which grant imperatives are established for a period of three years.

2) To receive comments on possible projects for the new Small Cities grant application for Fiscal Year 1993, due to the Executive Office of Communities and Development on September 10, 1993. Eligible types of projects under the Massachusetts Small Cities program regulations include housing rehabilitation, home ownership, economic development and commercial revitalization, infrastructure (which meets objectives of Housing and Community Development Act), public facilities, public/social services, and related planning activities. Any individual or pertinent organization wishing to be heard will be afforded the opportunity to do so. They may attend this hearing or provide a written submission to the Small Cities Program Director, Glenn Garber, as close to the hearing date as possible. More information may be obtained by calling 658-6333.

PUBLIC NOTICE OF ENVIRONMENTAL REVIEW

Intercity passenger rail service, integrated with intercity bus services, is proposed to be restored along the Portland, Maine to Boston, Massachusetts corridor to provide a safe alternative means of transportation, alleviate highway congestion, and meet regional air quality goals. In Massachusetts, stops are proposed at the Bradford Station in Haverhill, and at North Station in Boston. Trains will operate on sections of the West Route, the Wildcat Branch, and the New Hampshire Main Line. Replacement of rail, ties and ballast will be necessary along the Wildcat Branch in Wilmington, and north of the Bradford Station in order to create safe conditions for passenger train service.

PROPOSER: Maine Department of Transportation

An Environmental Notification Form ("ENF") was submitted to the Secretary of Environmental Affairs on June 30, 1993. This will initiate review of the above project pursuant to the Massachusetts Environmental Policy Act ("MEPA", M.G.L. c. 30, secs. 61, 62-62H). Copies of the ENF may be obtained from: Lisa A. Standley, Vanasse Hangen Brustlin, Inc., 101 Walnut Street, P.O. Box 9151, Watertown, MA 02272, (617) 924-1770. A consultation session on the project may also be scheduled. All persons wishing to comment on the project, or to be notified of a site visit or consultation session, should write to the Secretary of Environmental Affairs, 100 Cambridge Street, Boston, Massachusetts 02202. THE PLEDGE

By KEN MAGUIRE

Most school children today will someday consider themselves lucky to have learned about the dangers of alcohol and drug abuse at an early age, thanks to the ever-growing Drug Abuse Resistance Education program.

The DARE curriculum begins as early as the first grade. Throughout their school careers, children are taught to stay healthy and to keep away from harmful drugs. But it wasn't long ago that no such programs existed.

Heavy use of mind-bending drugs in the Sixties and early Seventies was enough to scare even the most liberal of today's parents into developing a prevention program such as DARE. But what did parents do in years past, when there were no educational outlets?

Over a century ago, one man gave that some heavy thought and came up with an idea. The year was 1883 when a wealthy Wakefield businessman named Jonathan Nichols established a $1,000 fund from which $10 would be paid as a reward to any boy who took and successfully completed the Jonathan Nichols Temperance and Tobacco Pledge. The $10 was to be taken from accrued interest.

Before reaching the age of 16, the participating boys pledged to not "drink intoxicating liquors and not to chew or smoke tobacco" prior to their 21st birthday. They would pledge this to the town clerk, and if successful by age 21, go before the Board of Selectmen to swear that they have complied with the said conditions. The selectmen would then present to the boy the $10, along with a scroll.

The idea, Nichols reasoned, was that if a kid could make it through his teenage years without touching booze or tobacco, there was a good chance he would never use the stuff. And as for the reward money, it would build interest and pay for itself over the long haul. Today, the fund is well over its starting point of $1,000. It currently stands at $13,107.52.

Although it was a century ago, and there was much less social pressure on kids, Nichols had the right idea - get to the kids at an early age. In a recent discussion with Wakefield DARE Officer Robert Ramocki, he noted early education.

"It's important to educate the kids right away," Ramocki said. "The sooner the better." He's not kidding. The DARE curriculum has Ramocki and similar DARE officers speaking to third and fourth graders. Time is of the essence when dealing with possibly life-threatening drugs.

While DARE obviously incorporates all children, the Temperance Pledge, being so long ago and before the advent of women's rights, was designed specifically for boys. However, its message is still clear today - stay away from the dangers of alcohol and tobacco. Had drugs been a part of the social scene in those times, perhaps the pledge would have included those as well.

The pledge was popular in the immediate years after its introduction. Almost 600 youths took the pledge from 1892 - when the first oath was taken - to 1918, but the honeymoon soon wore off. From 1918 until 1959, only 10 youngsters applied.

Of the total 702 who have pledged to uphold the conditions of the award, only 70 have received the $10, according to files uncovered from the cobwebs of a closet in the Wakefield town hall.

The highlight of the pledge's popularity came in 1959, when Donald T. Young, then a local photographer, drew national attention for being the first kid in a long while to uphold the pledge.

The Associated Press and the United Press International picked up on the story and it ran in newspapers as far away as the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, among others. Here is a sample of one of the stories written about the reward (taken from "Stars and Stripes"):

Clean-Cut Kid Wins $10 in Filthy Lucie

WAKEFIELD, Mass. - Donald T. Young, a nonsmoker and non-drinker, told town officials here he hasn't been good for nothing. Young, a 23-year-old art student and photographer, applied for the town's little-known "Jonathan Nichols Temperance and Tobacco Award."

Young, town officials reported, will receive the $10 award and a scroll, honoring his abstinence. (AP)

According to a local newspaper account at that time, "the office of the town clerk was stormed by 70 Wakefield High School students yearning to take the pledge" after seeing and hearing about Young's success. Unfortunately, very few of the 70 lived up to the pledge.

The next large influx of pledges came in 1964, when a local Boy Scout troop of 29 members took the oath. A local paper reported the developments: "The Scouts were prompted into the action in light of the government's recent public disclosures on the dangers to one's own health involved in smoking. The Nichols Pledge, believed to be the only of its kind in the country, was their answer."

It may have been their answer then, but they grew up in the Sixties. Only a couple fulfilled the conditions of the pledge. As for more recently, Wakefield Town Accountant Matthew Burns said he could not recall anyone receiving the $10 reward in the last twenty years.

PLEDGING IN THE SIXTIES - Wakefield Town Clerk Charles "Buster" Young administers the oath of the Jonathan Nichols Temperance and Tobacco Pledge to a group of local boy scouts in this 1964 photo. The pledge is a century old and offers a $10 reward for abstaining from alcohol and tobacco until the age of 21.

This being 1993, a reward of $10 is not exactly something to look forward to. A kid could make that much by returning some aluminum cans or mowing half a lawn. But is the money the real objective here? The ultimate goal is to keep kids away from drugs and alcohol.

For kids, the combination of honoring a pledge and achieving a goal is more meaningful than the measly $10, right? Unfortunately, the likelihood of that happening nowadays seems grim, at best. A few local teenagers were recently asked their opinions on such topics, specifically the Pledge.

"For ten bucks, it's asking way too much," said one 17-year-old, who asked that only his first name - Joseph - be used for publication. "I'm not saying I drink and do drugs all the time, in fact I don't, but I like to party on the weekends. I admit, I've done some drugs when I was younger and dumb. But I don't know, getting ten bucks when I'm twenty-one doesn't sound too rewarding."

The ten dollar reward is obviously outdated, so what about upping the ante a little bit? How about one, five or even ten thousand?

"Ten thousand..." pondered Joseph, "...for ten grand you

Reassuring patient experience

AUDREY CHRISTIANSEN OF BURLINGTON and Denise Costello, R.N., M.S., nurse coordinator at Winchester Hospital's Breast Care Center talk at the Center in Woburn.

When Audrey Christiansen of Burlington was told that a mass was seen on her mammogram, she was understandably upset. Over the course of several weeks, however, as she went through the process of further testing, an aspiration, and a biopsy, much of her anxiety abated. Mrs. Christiansen credits the support of her husband, three children and the Winchester Hospital Breast Care Center at Baldwin Park II in Woburn with making the experience as comfortable as possible.

After the abnormality was spotted on a routine mammogram, Mrs. Christiansen had an ultrasound whose results prompted the doctor to refer her to the Breast Care Center. "When I arrived at the Center, I was greeted by Denise Costello, who made me feel at ease because she was very easy to talk to," recalls Mrs. Christiansen. Costello, an R.N., serves the center as nurse coordinator.

The films from the mammogram and ultrasound were evaluated, and the medical staff determined that Mrs. Christiansen needed a needle aspiration. This procedure uses a small needle to draw fluid from the center of a lump. If the fluid is clear, or if the lump deflates after the aspiration, then the lump is likely to be a cyst. If no fluid can be drawn out, or if the fluid is not clear and the pathology report finds abnormal cells, then a biopsy is the next logical step to determine the nature of the lump.

"Everything was explained to me in great detail, and all my questions were answered," she says. "Then, they did the procedure right there." She appreciated the fact that the step was taken immediately, without requiring another appointment and the anxious period of waiting prior to it. Within a day, she had the results: a biopsy was needed.

"The Center arranged the biopsy for me, and they got it scheduled within a week," Mrs. Christiansen says, again appreciating the brevity of the wait. On March 18 she entered Winchester Hospital for day surgery, noting, "I was treated so well there it was unbelievable. Everything was done on time, and everything was explained to me and my husband." She remembers coming to, and overhearing one of the nurses saying, "We have good news for Mrs. Christiansen." Her husband had already heard the good report: she did not have cancer. And as routine follow up examinations at the Center have verified, her recovery from the biopsy has been normal.

Despite many moments of concern, her experiences point to the very idea behind the creation of the Breast Center, which, according to Costello, is a much focused on ongoing breast health as on breast problem. Christiansen found it helpful to watch, in private, a video about breast self examination. She liked the soft colors and quiet decor of the Center, describing its atmosphere as "very relaxing, and very efficient without a lot of hustle and bustle." And she appreciated the fact that her problems were dealt with promptly and the necessary scheduling of future appointments was handled for her.

In addition to the particular services appropriate in Mrs. Christiansen's case, the Center offers mammography, a reference library and an information hotline. It also provides streamlined access to medical and surgical specialists with a multidisciplinary team consisting of surgeons, plastic surgeons, oncologists and radiotherapists.

"I have told all my friends that if they have a question or concern about the health of their breasts, they should go to the Breast Care Center," says Mrs. Christiansen. "Everyone there made my experience very reassuring."

EARLY TOOTH OVERCROWDING

When should crooked teeth be straightened? As soon as they're detected! The old adage about an ounce of protection is especially true in orthodontics, where crooked teeth can be prevented by early treatment.

Diagnosed at a sufficiently early age, an unusual trend can often be stopped in its tracks - and its effects completely erased. To ensure early detection, a child should have a checkup by the family dentist at intervals of about six months, beginning at 2-1/2 to 3 years of age. Overcrowded and crooked teeth are most likely to make their entrance with the arrival of the four permanent incisors and the four permanent molars at around age six.

Prompt treatment is recommended when teeth are overcrowded. Some baby teeth may be removed ahead of their normal shedding time to allow nature to do a certain amount of tooth straightening. Known as interceptive orthodontics, it involves a one-by-one extraction in a well-planned sequence to make room for a better bite.

Tuesday trash areas, and so on.

When the first phase of the project is completed, maintenance will be ongoing and will include catch basins in city parks and cemeteries. Residents are reminded not to park their cars over catch basins in designated cleaning areas.

Previously, in Malden, such cleaning was done sporadically, on an emergency basis.

WAKEFIELD DPW GOES NATIONWIDE - Wakefield's Department of Public Works is one of 12 agencies involved in a nationwide American Public Works Association project designed to improve DPW performance.

DPW officials from Foster City, California, as well as an APWA member, will make evaluations based on a site visit next week, the purpose of which is to gather information for future editions of a recently published book of management guidelines; receive a fresh look at how things operate in the East; and obtain an evaluation to improve the department.

According to DPW Office Manager Stinson, in the Wakefield edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle," the Wakefield department will benefit tremendously from the self-assessment, evaluation process and information exchange with peers. Stinson will represent Wakefield in Foster City, later, on the APWA.

three-year program in conjunction with a Middleton firm to clean its catch basins.

The $121,000 contract signed recently with American Sweeping Co. privatizes for the first time one facet of its public maintenance operations.

According to Keith Swerdlick, administrative assistant to Malden Mayor Edwin C. Lucey, in the "Daily News Mercury," the program will continue until all catch basins in the Monday trash collection areas are cleaned, and then it will move to

Survey conducted regarding children and parenting today

It's safe to assume that parents all across America want the same thing for their children - health, happiness and success. However, according to a nationwide survey conducted by the makers of Ziploc® storage bags, their thoughts vary on other child-raising issues and how they feel about being a parent.

A recent survey polled nearly 600 parents nationwide on a variety of issues which they face. Some of the results were surprising, as listed below:

- When asked what they were most worried about for their child, parents responded that:
- 24% are worried about trouble/safety
- 22% are worried about health
- 17% are concerned for their child's future
- 16% are concerned about their education.
- When asked how they chose their child's names, they answered as follows:

- 27% liked the sound of the name.

- 23% were named for a parent or grandparent

- 16% were chosen from a book of baby names.

- Fifty-eight percent of the respondents said their most exciting moment as a new parent was when the baby was born.

- Nineteen percent of the parents surveyed felt that if they had more time they would be better organized.

- Parents feel their lives have changed considerably since their baby was born:

- 40% say they now have less free time and time to sleep

- 22% say their social life has decreased considerably.

- 9% say their priorities have changed; they feel more responsible.

- 3% say they've had to become more financially responsible.

Bentley Brothers 3-Ring Circus in Winchester July 9 thru 11

Three giant rings of fun will be presented at the Bentley Brothers International 3-Ring Circus, sponsored by the Winchester Police Association. The circus is coming to Skillings Field on Friday, July 9 through Sunday, July 11 with shows at 4 and 7:30 p.m. Friday; 12 noon, 4 and 7:30 p.m. Saturday; 12 noon and 4 p.m. Sunday.

A live band opens this extravaganza with a greeting to all circus goers. Ringmaster Jerry Eyestone steps out to command the pace and tempo of the show, starting with Ted Polk and his trained ligers, that's right ligers, it's not a typo, it's a cross between a lion and a tiger, very rare, they look like lions with stripes, definitely something that has never been seen before.

This is just the beginning. Columbia is the native land of the Posso family, who provide hair-raising acts of drama on the highwire without the benefit of a net. Dainty darlings of the air demonstrate great feats of grace and beauty, suspended high above the watchful eyes of the audience during their glittery, cabaret-style, aerial ballet. Jimmy Hall's famous Russian Bears will have the audience chortling in their chairs with the hilarious outrageous antics and amazing displays of dexterity, and of course those masters of merriment produced by Boss Clown Bruce Warner.

The equestrian display of beautifully groomed stallions prancing about in perfect synchronization to the upbeat tempo of the circus band is a pleasure. And don't forget the backbone of the circus, the marvelous pondering pachyderms, the circus elephants.

The Pledge

From S-1

Peer pressure certainly weighs more on the social scale than a century-old $10 temperance pledge. However, fulfilling the pledge can set a positive might convince me. I could do a lot with that money. If I go to a state school (for college) - that's if I can get in - that might cover me for two years. Ten grand would make me think twice, that's for sure."

precedent for the rest of a youngster's life. Surrendering to peer pressure may seem to be the right choice at first, but it can catch you in the long run.

If Jonathan Nichols lived today, maybe he could be convinced to add some more greenbacks to the Pledge fund to raise an interest among our youth. But unfortunately, it stands as is, building interest and waiting for a healthy, vibrant youngster to take the challenge.

HOSPITAL SIBLING CLASS HELPS CHILDREN ADJUST

Adjusting to a new addition in the family can be difficult for everyone, especially for an older child who may feel that a new baby means he or she is no longer important. Helping youngsters understand about a new baby is important to ensure family harmony.

To help youngsters 2 1/2 to 10 years of age adjust to having a new baby in the home, a special program, "On Being a Sibling," will be held at Melrose-Wakefield Hospital on Wednesday, July 14.

The program will be held from 6:15 to 7:15 p.m. in Perkins Lecture Hall, 585 Lebanon St. in Melrose. Registration is required and there is a $10 fee per family.

Families are encouraged to attend together to learn more about helping an older child make a healthy adjustment to a new brother or sister. The program offers helpful tips for parents, such as minimizing sibling rivalry, and how to talk to a child before and after the birth of the baby. Instructors will speak directly with children about what they can do for their new brother or sister and each child will make a special bib for their new sibling.

To register for "On Being a Sibling" or for more information, call the Childbirth Education Department at Melrose-Wakefield Hospital, (617) 979-3408 or (617) 979-3515.

Co-Chairmen Dr. Howard Rosenkrantz of Marblehead and Michael Smith of Topsfield have announced that the tournament will be Monday, September 27, at the Kernwood Country Club in Salem. John Dennis, Channel 7 sportscaster, will play golf that day and MC the festivities after the tournament. The shotgun start will be at 12:30 p.m., followed by dinner, awards and prizes.

The tournament will be open to the first 144 players, men or women, who register with the North Area office. The cost is $150 which includes greens fees, carts, gifts and dinner. Applications and information can be obtained from the North Area office in Peabody, (508) 531-2280 or Melrose, (617) 665-1351.

INFORMATION ON INFANT CARE

Anyone who has ever been around an infant knows how much work is required. Although many have had some experience caring for an infant, extra help and guidance can come in handy.

Instruction in diapering, bathing, feeding and changing are just a few of the topics covered in the Early Infant Care program being offered by Melrose-Wakefield Hospital. The program will be held on Tuesday, July 13 and on Wednesday, July 21, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. in Perkins Lecture Hall, 585 Lebanon Street in Melrose. Individuals may attend one or both classes.

MWH pediatricians will be on hand to answer many questions that parents may have concerning infant care. Also discussed during the program will be general health and safety issues for infants, the use of car seats, and childproofing the home. In addition, important issues related to choosing a pediatrician, the in's and out's of day care, working parents, pets in the home and the blessing of grandparents will also be included.

Registration is required and there is a $10 fee for each class. Interested individuals may register for the Early Infant Care program by calling MWH's Childbirth Education Department at (617) 979-3408 or (617) 979-3515.

"M.E.'s for You"

School notes

by phyllis nissen

TAKE THE MIDDLESEX EAST SCHOOL NOTES FINAL EXAM AND WIN ... a round-trip ticket to nowhere. How well do you know your local school systems? The following agenda, albeit a bit old, comes from which M. E. town?

The meeting agenda includes: roll call, approval of minutes, questions and comments from the public, a student report, recognition of staff receiving advanced degrees during the school year, a multicultural report from the principals, a review of student handbooks.

Also, a draft policy on weapons and student conduct, a review of courses with less than 12 students, student trips during the school year, report on the assistant superintendent search, and the summer meeting schedule.

The superintendent is scheduled to report on open enrollment, staff, and a proposed enrichment project.

The School Committee is about to consider its association with the Massachusetts Association of School Committees and appoint a representative to the Field Management Committee.

Other agenda items include personnel actions, bid awards and dates (the school calendar?), an executive session, and adjournment.

Guess the town and win yourself a round-trip ticket which could hurl you in the direction of the Middlesex East School System (M.E.S.S.), a new concept to consolidate administrative duplication and scheduled to come into being as soon as exactly the right superintendent can be located.

A nationwide search is already underway for some sort of custodial superintendent with enough skills in the quality control arena to deal with the M.E.S.S.

MALDEN STUDENTS TALK HISTORY - Representing the Malden Living Heritage and using actual artifacts, Jenny Snyder-Cohen recently spoke to Malden's Belmont Elementary School students about how lives and lifestyles have changed over the years and how values are handed down from generation to generation.

For more information on Malden's Living Heritage Program, contact Director Linda Zalk at (617) 321-2935.

READING CHOOSES NEW ASSISTANT SUPERINTENDENT - After its second nationwide search, the Reading School Committee has unanimously voted to appoint Dennis Richards of Andover, Superintendent of Schools Dr. Robert Munnely's recommended candidate for assistant superintendent. Educational supervisor of the 12,000 students in the Nashua, New Hampshire public schools since 1991, Richards is expected to begin full-time in Reading in August at a salary of $64,000.

As part of his role in Nashua, Richards supervises and evaluates teachers and principals; assists the assistant superintendent in the evaluation and selection of textbooks; and coordinates principal and elementary teacher professional development, gifted education, the selection and assignment of elementary staff, and curricular revision and development.

He holds an undergraduate degree from Merrimack College, a Master's in English Language and Literature from Middlebury and a Master's in Education from the Harvard Graduate School of Education.

Meanwhile, the name of Reading's Parker Middle School Principal and former president of the National Association of Secondary School Principals Dr. Jack Delaney has surfaced in Andover, where after one year as assistant superintendent, Eileen Woods - Reading resident and former Reading teacher - has announced that she'd rather be a principal; and Winchester - also in its second search - is interviewing four finalists for assistant superintendent for curriculum and instruction.

Actually, the really big news this week is that the Reading School Committee has elected an assistant chairman after a year of being unable to settle on any one member; and by the way, they elected a new chairman also.

MOVIES

by Rochelle Flynn "The Firm", "Son-In-Law"

"The Firm" Starring Tom Cruise, Jeanne Tripplehorn, Ed Harris, Holly Hunter, Hal Holbrook, David Strathairn. Directed and Produced by Sydney Pollack. Screenplay by David Rabe, Robert Towne, David Rayfiel. Rated R. Based on the book by John Grisham.

In what is arguably one of the most awaited movies of the summer, Tom Cruise plays Mitch McDeere, a young lawyer who sells his soul to the company firm. Only in this Mephistopheles-like tale, the company store is a small, Memphis law firm in which everyone is treated like "family."

The lawyers at Bendini, Lambert & Locke are tax specialists who woo McDeere, a top graduate at Harvard Law School, with an amazing salary and generous perks. He's tired of being poor and doesn't ask too many questions. His mistake. McDeere's wife Abby (Jeanne Tripplehorn) senses something is wrong with the perfect life Mitch is choosing for them, but she can't quite put her finger on it.

It takes Mitch a while to figure out just what is wrong with "The Firm." Though there are some legitimate clients, the place is there to help the Mafia launder money and solve tax problems. Working for The Firm is like working for Big Brother, everything you say and do is carefully watched. And no one ever leaves - except in a pine box.

Though there is plenty of excitement in this flick, there is also no denying it is bloated at about 2 hours and 45 minutes.

By the time McDeere realizes his trap, he's figured out that the Feds are no better than the Mafia and if he wants to save himself and his lovely wife, he'd better do it himself. Director Sidney Pollack ensnares us as much as his lead character, but the endless scenes of Cruise running, or xeroxing, dissipate some of this thriller's tension.

Though the movie really needed tighter editing, its length doesn't take away too much in the long run. Cruise, though a flawed hero, is an interesting one helped greatly by a fabulous supporting cast. Gary Busey as a talkative private eye and Holly Hunter as his frightened, able associate are fleshed out, funny and poignant. David Strathairn's unhappy convict is actually one of the film's warmer characters, a supposed hardened criminal who actually needs a lot of looking after.

The dichotomies in these people are even more intriguing than the film's tension, which is too uneven to be as effective as it should have been. However, your involvement with the characters in this flick, and the cleverness of the script, just about makes up for the film's overblown length.

"Son-In-Law" Starring Pauly Shore, Carla Cugino, Lane Smith, Cindy Pickett. Directed by Steve Rash. Screenplay by Fax Bahr, Adam Small, Shawn Schepps. Produced by Michael Rotenberg, Peter M. Lenkov. Rated PG-13.

Well, it's not as bad as you'd think.

Yes, that was intended as a back-handed compliment, because this vehicle for MTV beach babbler Pauly Shore is the kind of movie you attend when everything else at the cineplex is sold out. That said, it's still not as bad as you think.

True, "Son-In-Law" may be mindless tripe, much like a rerun of "Green Acres." But it skims along in a mindless, sort of funny manner, not unlike most of the programs we watch on the telly.

No surprise, as this flick comes to us straight from the TV generation. The star is Pauly Shore, whose claim to fame is as a comic host on MTV, where he spurts surf speak and pretends to be younger than he is. Here he plays Crawl, an aging resident assistant in his sixth year of college.

His neighbor is Becca (Carla Cugino), a fresh-off-the-farm freshman who can't adjust to life in wicked California. Crawl decides to lend her a hand and transforms the frosh into a tattooed tootsie.

Landing an invite to Becca's Midwest farm over Thanksgiving vacation, Crawl pretends he's engaged to his neighbor to save her from a ring-bearing boyfriend. Her Waltonsque family is of course shocked. They can't understand what happened to sweet little Becca, and Crawl is akin to an alien being in their eyes.

Exaggerated to the point of total inanity, there is still something nearly humorous about the movie simply because Crawl's character is so nice. He really wants to fit in on the farm and is willing to put up with red-neck rudeness until he does. Some of the fish out of water stuff is actually worth a chuckle.

Still, this remains very much like an extended sit-com. There is no more depth or quality to this film than could be found in an episode of "Gilligan's Island." Perhaps less. However, as it made me laugh a couple of times and was less annoying than expected, it actually rose above my low expectations.

Worth seeing? No. Even if everything else is sold out? Well, maybe.
